

SENATOR GRADY
TACTICS REVOLT.

Bolting Democrats Who Objected to His Tie-Up Tactics in Senate Forced Back Into Line and Will Follow His Lead.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN HELPS.

Representing Tammany, He Insisted on Grady Being Recognized—Republicans Call All Their Absentees to Help in Deadlock.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ALBANY, March 3.—Senator Grady, after a hot fight in caucus to-day, halted a revolt by Democrats against him as Senate leader. He had the assistance of "Big Tim" Sullivan, who represented Tammany and insisted that Grady be given full support in his tie-up tactics in the Senate.

It was the tie-up which caused all the trouble, the bolters by Senators Foley and McCorren being opposed to a blocking of business.

At last night's session of the Senate six Republicans were absent, giving Mr. Grady, as Democratic leader, an opportunity to tie the Senate in a bow-knot. This he proceeded to do by preventing the passage of all bills and announcing that he would fight to a finish.

Senators Foley and McCorren resented Grady's course, and other Democratic Senators snarled under the scolding Grady gave them in open Senate. But they followed him.

The Democrats were in caucus when the Senate met to-day, leaving the Republicans short of enough votes for important business. Finally Senator Raines ordered an open call of the House, and all of the twenty-two Democrats came trooping into the chamber. Grady was very angry when the caucus had to be adjourned, and he denounced the Republicans for their renewed lack of courtesy to the Democrats.

One unimportant bill was passed, the next one failed of a majority vote, and the Senate adjourned. Then the Democrats went back into caucus, and after a long wordy battle Grady won, the Democrats pledged themselves to stand solidly behind Grady, insisting upon a strict enforcement of all the Senate rules and blocking the majority wherever possible. This fight may prolong the session indefinitely.

To prevent a repetition of the filibustering and the exciting scenes that characterized last night's session of the Senate, the party leaders sent telegrams to come on to Albany immediately, and as a result Senator Stewart left his wife, who is ill with typhoid at Ithaca, and Senator McCall, who had been excused, also arrived.

Senator Prime, of Essex; Senator Elmer, of New York; Senator L'Hommedieu are expected here by 10 o'clock.

The Senators but Senator White, of Syracuse, who is ill, were called back.

HILL AND PARKER INTER.

Suppression of Acceptance Telegram Not a Topic for Them.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ALBANY, March 3.—Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals Alton B. Parker and David B. Hill both refused to talk on Editor St. Clair McKelway's accusation that Senator Hill prevented Judge Parker's nomination for Governor at Saratoga by suppressing a telegram of acceptance it is alleged Parker prepared. When The World's story of the McKelway charge was shown Judge Parker, he said:

"I don't care to see it. I am not saying a word on anything just now." Senator Hill remarked: "I have nothing, whatever to say."

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 3.—Edmond B. Roe, the village blacksmith, of Lagrangeville, Dutchess County, died at Nassau Hospital. The news was telegraphed to his family and two hours later receiving the telegram Mrs. Roe, the widow, sitting in her easy chair at home, died of apoplexy, brought on by the shock of her husband's death.

HERE ARE EASTER HATS.

Lord &amp; Taylor's Millinery Opening a Springtime Dream of Form and Color.

The Easter hat of 1903 makes its bow today at the spring millinery opening of Lord & Taylor, Broadway and Twentieth street.

In the spacious show rooms on the second floor the latest millinery triumphs of Paris and New York are gathered together. Proudly topping the list of latest rods to make their debut are the display their beauties to fullest advantage.

As they stand in the line so many debutantes. But unlike these, they present every conceivable color and combination of colors that feminine ingenuity can devise.

Most beautiful and novel of these millinery triumphs are the hats made of two shades of straw. Indications point to the predominance of leghorn and straw hats next summer, and one of Lord & Taylor's president, Mr. J. W. Taylor, has a wide cream-colored leghorn, bent slightly at either side of the face to produce a peak effect. Underneath the crown is a crown of blue, the darker shade of blue is of silver.

This hat has a crown of silver, trimmed with a wide band of blue, and lined with the same novel effect. It is faced with the same novel effect.

POPE'S JUBILEE
DID HIM GOOD.

en-blazing with decorations. In a group of royal personages were the Crown Prince of Sweden and the King of Norway, the Countess Mathilde of Trier, of the Bourbon-Naples family; the Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar, Duke Robert of Parma, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg and the Prince of Liechtenstein. The Prince and Princess Mirko of Montenegro, brother and sister-in-law of the Queen of Italy, were also in brilliant gathering.

In a special tribute were the members of the Pope's family. At 11 o'clock precisely the great bell of St. Peter's rang out a signal, which was followed by the clanging of the bells of about five hundred churches in Rome as they sounded the announcement that the Pontiff was on his way to the basilica.

Pontiff Appears.

The ancient city seemed to pause for a moment, hats were raised and the sign of the cross was made. Shortly afterward, inside St. Peter's, silver trumpets blared out their message, and the Pontiff appeared. The people held their breath for a moment, and then all the pent-up enthusiasm burst forth in a tremendous roar of welcome.

From his elevation on the new sedia Gestatoria, carried by twelve men in costumes of red brocade, flanked by the famous Fiamelli (spreading feather fans) and surrounded by a white and gold canopy, the Pope appeared to be more than a human being.

He seemed to be a white spirit, this impression being added to by the Pontiff's white robes and white mitre, delicate features, face as white as alabaster and his thin hand moving slowly in benediction.

POPE'S JUBILEE OBSERVED WITH POMP AT CATHEDRAL

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Leo XIII. as Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church was observed at St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning by a pontifical high mass, celebrated by Mr. Falconio, the Apostolic Delegate to this country, with Archbishop Farley and all the suffragan bishops of the New York diocese present. The great church edifice was thrown open to the general public and an immense congregation assembled. Musical services of an impressive character accompanied the mass.

Archbishop Farley sat at the pontifical throne to the right of the sanctuary, attended by Fathers Colton and Mc-

Gean, his diocesan consultants. In the sanctuary, kneeling at the prie-dieu, were the bishops of the diocese. A prominent place was given Bishop Quigley, of Buffalo, who has already received the appointment of his archbishop to succeed the late Archbishop Feahan, of Chicago. He leaves within a few days to assume charge of his new archdiocese.

A eulogy of the Pontiff was delivered by Rev. T. J. Campbell, S. J., President of St. John's College, Fordham, and former provincial of the eastern province of the Jesuits. The speaker discussed the history of Leo's pontificate in a strain of lofty eloquence. In a summary of the Pontiff's influence on the world at large, he said:

The Pope as a Teacher.

"In a thousand different ways, by encyclicals and letters and briefs and allocutions, he has been the teacher of every grade and condition of society. Every word he utters, every act he performs is the fulfillment of his great characteristic work, to retain the life that every moment threatens to flit away into the world beyond; self-chained to one place for a quarter of a century, the very antithesis in everything of what the world is, yet so completely in touch with every part of it that not only the great men of earth consult him, but, as if he had no other task, constantly and with every part of it to converse with him, and he is so approachable that even if I am the meanest slave I can go to him and tell him speak to me and feel the pressure of his affectionate hand upon my head, and know that he is my father and I his son."

NEVER FORGETS IT.

Husband Has Cause to Remember Grape-Nuts.

So careless in health are some people that they sometimes actually forget the benefactor of their days of sickness.

The man whose wife, or the woman whose husband, has been brought back to health and strength by a pure food is not apt to forget. "It sometimes amuses me," writes a lady of Battle Lake, Minn., "that no matter what I send to the store for or what may be forgotten, my husband never forgets to supply us with Grape-Nuts promptly. Indeed I may say it is the one thing he never forgets."

About a year ago, when I began using the food, I was so run down and miserable that it was all I could possibly do to struggle through my day's household duties. Through a carter's trouble I had almost entirely lost the sense of taste and loss of appetite followed.

"I could scarcely force myself to eat food sufficient to furnish me with strength to keep me up. I just managed to scrape through my household duties. In a very short time after I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts I began to get stronger, and the improvement has been so steady and marked that my health is now better than for 20 years past. I do all of my own housework, and for two months during last summer I had five rompers, which of course increased my work to a great extent. I am never without Grape-Nuts now and can never say enough in their praise. But as much as I think of the food my husband thinks more." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Feet aching all cases of stomach trouble come from the use of improper food. Where this improper food is left off and Grape-Nuts is used the results are so beneficial and the change so rapid that many people look upon it as wonderful. Nothing wonderful about it. Just following Nature.

WIRELESS MESSAGE FROM THE CARDINAL TO POPE LEO XIII.

Baltimore, March 2, 1903.

Pope Leo XIII., Rome, Italy.

American hierarchy, clergy and laity send congratulations on your jubilee.

JAMES, CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Manager Bottomley, of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, announced to-day that the above message was transmitted last night from one of the stations of the company in New England and was received at Poldhu, England. From there it was transmitted by wire to Rome, because the Marconi station in Italy is not yet completed.

RIVER GIVES UP CAPTIVE.

Body of Drowned Man Comes Up After Three Months.

A deckhand on the Merritt-Chapman lighter Champlain, at anchor between Piers 13 and 14, East River, saw a body bob up alongside to-day. He gave the alarm, the body was hauled aboard and was found to be that of George Felhardt, formerly cook on the Champlain, who had fallen overboard in that very slip last December 16.

That the body of the cook should have come to the surface after nearly three months exactly where the drowning took place and while his former shipmates were in the slip is considered remarkable by rivermen. Felhardt slipped off while crossing from the pier to the boat and it is supposed that his body became fast in the piles and was held there until to-day.

Nothing is known of the man's family. The body was taken to the Morgue and will be buried by the Merritt-Chapman Company.

OLD WOMAN U. S. PRISONER.

Mrs. Ayars, of Hoboken, Is Accused of Sending Offensive Letters.

Mrs. Annie J. The complaint was made through Anthony Comstock by two men of the names of Jackson and Clinton, of No. 32 Desbrosses street, this city. She was held in $1,000 bail.

NEWARK WRECK

INQUEST ENDS.

Testimony All In and the Jury Retires to Consider Its Verdict on Killing of High School Girls.

CORONER DELIVERS CHARGE.

At the resumption in Newark to-day of the inquest into the Clifton avenue trolley disaster Robert Van Ness, of No.

Stauben street, East Orange, was the first witness called. He said that the gates at the Lackawanna crossing were down when the car laden with High School children approached the steam railroad tracks.

Frank Knott, of No. 97 Wiley street, the Assistant Superintendent of Streets and Highways, testified that he had never been instructed to remove snow from Clifton avenue.

Charles M. Shipman, general superintendent of the North Jersey Street Railroad, was called and asked whether he had ever given instructions authorizing passengers of the cars to ride on the platform, and he answered in the negative.

"I forbade that practice," he added, "and I have personally pulled passengers off the bumpers, have had them arrested and used other means to prevent overcrowding. I found that after forcing some of them away from the bumpers they would run along to the next block and jump on again."

I suppose you will admit," Foreman remarked, "that the road was given to you in a crippled condition?"

"Who is responsible in running this road while it is in a crippled condition?"

"I guess I am responsible for maintaining of the road."

Foreman then referred to a portion of Vice-President Young's statement, given yesterday, in these terms: "Mr. Young stupidly expected us to make a record of his assertion that he did on one occasion notice passengers standing on the bumpers."

Mr. Coe said that last night he observed passengers standing on the bumpers of about a half dozen cars. Superintendent Holcomb, of the Clifton Department of the North Jersey Street Railroad, presented a statement made to him by Conductor Gould, of the trolley car No. 10, which was the last car to be run. This was not made public because Gould is under arrest.

This completely satisfied the coroner. Helman in his charge said that he wished to call attention to the fact that the steam railroads were running their cars at a high and dangerous rate of speed and far in excess of that prescribed by law. He said the company gates were inadequate, and that notwithstanding the splendid organization of the trolley company it had failed to fully perform its duty. He told the jury that if any of the city boards was round dretel in enforcing ordinances that should be taken into consideration.

This he retired to consider its verdict at 8 o'clock.
